new mexico animal friends

It takes a village.....

Some jobs are too big for one person. What seems simple - finding a good home for a homeless dog or cat - actually requires a mosaic of efforts. When an animal walks into his/her forever home, they are there because of the many people who have offered helping hands along the way.

Take Brittany, for example. She showed up at a local animal shelter last spring sporting a New Mexico Animal Friends microchip. We were unable to track down the owner, but that microchip brought her to us. We picked her up, began her paperwork, and the network of supporters began to come alive.

She first went to Corrales Kennels where owner, Dan Meurer, kept her warm, safe and well fed. After a while there, John and Marissa Petrey fostered her, but Brit got cranky with their little dogs. Then she went with Theresa & Harry Hayden but she got scrappy with their dogs too. Brit was letting us know that she prefers a quiet home, maybe with one big, Gentle Ben boy dog, not a home with multiple pets.

So it was back to the kennel with our hapless friend. But life in a kennel is no life for a dog! So.... volunteers enriched her life with long walks on the Corrales bosque. Ed Goodman and Barb Mangano each went several times a week to take Brittany out for fresh air, sunshine and off-leash romps in Dan's grassy exercise corral.

Patty Bolnick, Jeanette Debar and yours truly helped transport her to the adoption clinics so she could hang out with her friends. After clinic, I would take her on field trips to pet-friendly locations to see the world and, dressed in her "Adopt Me" vest, look for a new mom or dad. To help in the search for a new family, Krista Gessing designed her adoption flyer, using photographs taken by Mary Ellen Carr.

During all this, we learned that eight-year-old Brittany needed thyroid medication and eye surgery to clean out a tear duct. John Heidrich, DVM, at VCA Town and Country Animal Clinic, did the surgery and provided thorough consultations to help us meet Brittany's middle-age medical needs. Jan Myszewski helped with transportation and Bill Payne kept Brit while she recovered from her surgery and to give her a break from the kennel (as did Renea Garrett and her family). As a special gesture, Brit's walking partner, Ed, used his artistic talents to make necklaces with Brittany's picture on them for NMAF to sell and raise money to pay for her surgery.

Now, Brittany is with Pat Murphy, a longtime volunteer and foster mom, and she is learning some simple obedience behaviors, like sit, stay, and wait at the door. She already walks like a dream on a leash. And Pat is teaching her to dance. The two of them can really cut a rug! Brittany's smile runs ear to ear as she dips into a bow. When her forever home shows up, Brittany will be a well-rounded dog with a village of friends to thank.

Friends in Need!

What could be worse than going to your cupboard and finding it bare? Many know firsthand how this feels. NMAF receives calls every week from people needing help because they are unable to provide veterinary care or buy pet food, or who are faced with the heartbreak of having to give up their pets for financial or medical reasons.

NMAF's cat foster homes and adopters are now also facing their share of hardships. Some have had to move family members into their homes; others have lost their jobs or even their homes, causing our foster cats to be displaced. This hardship has had severe repercussions on New Mexico Animal Friends' cat foster family as well: we recently lost several of our longtime foster homes, and the cats in those homes had to be relocated, some of them into a commercial boarding facility because there were no foster homes available. And since NMAF no longer has access to a permanent cat adoption center, our cats can only be viewed and fallen in love with two days a week. So our foster program is now overloaded with homeless kitties. This means that we're unable to take in many of the needy cats from the community for lack of space in the foster network. This vicious circle exacts a high price: each life we can save is precious.

And there's more... Because so many in our troubled economy are unsure of their future, people are not adopting pets as readily as they have in the past. Since the adoption rate is lower, it adds another crunch to the program.

How can you help? In these hard times, each of us is called upon to take some action to help -- If there is any room in your home for a cat or a kitten, won't you please consider taking one in as a foster pet or as an addition to your pet family? Working together, we can turn hard times into a happy new future for our homeless feline friends.

Dilly

In Memory of DILLY

We want to extend a huge, heart-felt THANK YOU to all who gave support to our precious foster cat Dilly, who purred through his life until the very end. In October, Dilly lost his battle against what was finally diagnosed as lymphoma. Our special thanks go to Susanne Walkford, Dilly's longtime foster mom; to Dr. John Heidrich of VCA Town & Country, Dr. Sandra Whaley of Manzano Animal Clinic, and Dr. Christine Wilson of All Creatures Healing Arts, for their excellent care and generosity; and to Elizabeth Thompson for her kind memorial donation for Dilly in memory of her beloved Thomas à Buckett. Dilly, your genteel and trusting spirit will remain an inspiration to us all.

Cost is $15 per cat, a donation to cover supplies. For specific info on this program or to volunteer at the clinic, call 881-PAWS (7297) or email NMAFInc@aol.com.

Thank you, Enchantment Pet Resort!

On Sept. 11, Enchantment Pet Resort sponsored Bark in the Park again. There were vendors, non-profits, demonstrations, doggie contests and more! NMAF was invited to be part of their event! We brought adoptable dogs and had a great time! Looking forward to next year too!

Thanks DXS Dance Xperience!

A GREAT BIG thank you to DXS! Voted "Best Dance Troupe" in the Alibi 2008 & 2009. They generously donated some of the proceeds from their last performance directly to NMAF and have done so for the past 2 years!

A special Thank You..... to the Enchanted Cat Club for sponsoring the recent T.I.C.A. cat show! Four of our adoptable kitties (Lolo, Nigel, Kitty-Kitty, and Cinnamon) were entered in the "Household Pet Category" and won several "Best" awards. Nobody ran away or attacked a judge either! We're in this to help our cats get adopted and get used to being handled, but you can bet we'll be hanging those ribbons on their cages at adoption clinics! A BIG thank you to all the donors of food, toys, treats, and monetary donations from the very wonderful vendors and The Enchanted Cat Club! We're very excited about next year!

Throughout the year we hold yard sales when enough donated items are collected. We had several this year and want to thank everyone! Thank you to the yard sale hosts, all volunteers and donors! There are so many and we appreciate you all GREATLY! Without all of you it couldn't happen! Please consider donating and possibly opening your home to host a yard sale next year! We will also be looking for donations and volunteers for the coming year's yard sales! Check our website for details!

CAR WASH THANKS!

Our car washes are a LOT of work but are successful! We all have fun and make money for the animals of NMAF. A GREAT BIG Thank you Golden Corral and to the students at Cibola High School who volunteered!
